HAGUE THE VOTE THIEF

Hague: Why I'm tough on asylum

TORY leader William Hague yesterday said he genuinely thought Britain's asylum problem was "out of control."

He denied exploiting the situation to improve his chances in this week's local elections.

Mr Hague said extreme right-wing groups would benefit if mainstream political parties did not tackle the issue.

He added: "I'm speaking up for the people of this country who haven't had any other politician or party to speak up for them on these issues."

Problems

Mr Hague was urged by an audience member on ITV's Dimbleby show to soften his language and ditch words like "flooding" and "swamping".

But he replied: "The dictionary definition of a flood is a flow that's out of control."

"When we've over 100,000 asylum seekers in the queue, we've a flow that's out of control."

HARDLINER HAGUE

Q. How do you make a Tory talk about immigration?

A. Tell him there's an election coming.

We've seen it all before! With a general election perhaps just a year away, the Conservatives have just realised that making noises about getting tough on bogus asylum seekers could win them lots of votes. So all of a sudden Hague and Co are suggesting that they should be put in prison camps, and demanding that 'bogus' refugees should be sent back. But there are just a couple of problems about all this:

- It was the Tories who let the whole asylum-seeker scandal start in the first place. Thousands were pouring in every year under the last

BRITAIN'S BEING GUTTED

BRITAIN, once the 'workshop of the world' is being deindustrialised under New Labour. 221,428 manufacturing jobs have been lost since December 1997, with a shocking 28,222 vanishing in the first four months of this year alone.

Even though the Phoenix deal appears to have saved many jobs at the Longbridge Rover plant, manufacturing industry in the West Midlands and the North is in crisis. Huge job losses are on the cards at the Ford works in Dagenham. Chorus, the successor to British steel, also looks set to close most of its remaining steel plants, leading to the loss of six thousand jobs in South Wales alone. The outlook for British manufacturing workers is bleak.

It's true that the official unemployment rate is low, but this is only because some four million unemployed workers have been POLITICS has always attracted its share of unsavoury careerists, but the New Labour phenomena has brought the discrediting of politics as an occupation to heights unmatched in the past. Whether one likes them or not, every generation of British politicians of the past could boast of giants like Pitt, Churchill, or Lloyd George. Yet there is not a single figure in the current Labour government fit to tie their shoelaces.

Labour's most notable achievement is its capacity for a lack of principle, and few can compete with Peter Hain as an exponent of the art. Brought up in South Africa, Hain spent his earlier years promoting boycotts against the country's apartheid regime, shouting anti-racist slogans, and supporting CND's campaign to divest Britain of its defences.

Now risen to become a Labour minister, Hain epitomises the sham of so-called 'anti-racism', which, as we have long pointed out, is nothing of the sort. 'Anti-racism' as currently promoted, is nothing more nor less than 'anti-whiteism'. The murder, rape, and theft of property from a tiny minority of white farmers in Zimbabwe is a graphic example of the double-standards of so-called 'anti-racists' like Hain.

Asked whether he intended to employ the same methods, which he personally supported in defence of blacks in South Africa, to protect whites in the former Rhodesia, Hain said that the Government could not directly interfere in a sovereign country, and that economic sanctions should not be used.

The fact of the matter is that those who have been allowed to take power in Britain have foisted on us a bogus doctrine of racial equality whose sham will be exposed again and again until they are removed. Zimbabwe is only the start.

CAR INDUSTRY CRISIS BRITAIN'S BEING GUTTED! GLOBALISM IN ACTION!

removed from the register by fiddles such as enforced 'early retirement' or being reclassified as 'long-term sick'. Furthermore, millions of the so-called 'jobs' created in service industries are low-paid and part-time. This allows the Government to boast of economic 'success' even as the number of people employed in manufacturing - real wealth-creating industries - has fallen to a record low of just 16.5 per cent.

The worst hit area for manufacturing job losses has been the North, where 43,185 jobs have gone since 'Tory' Blair took over. Next is the West Midlands, with 31,332. The shocking figures were unearthed during a study by the giant GMB general union. GMB boss, John Edmonds, warned that many more manufacturing jobs are set to go, particularly as the weakness of the Euro is making it very hard for companies to export to Europe. "Ministers must wake up," says Mr. Edmonds, "It is a manufacturing crisis on a scale not seen since the darkest days of Thatcherism. Thousands of jobs are being lost every week in the very heartland areas that the Labour party is supposed to be cultivating in the run-up to the next election."

"Unless action is taken to ease the pressure on manufacturers then the political, economic and reality of British capital, plant and jobs seeping away to mainland and Eastern Europe, and to the low-wage Far East. This means big profits for a few multinational companies and their shareholders, but it spells disaster for British workers. £100 million may sound like quite a bit of money, but in reality it is only the amount it costs Britain to remain in the European Union for just over two days. Yes, you read that right! Membership of the meddling, undemocratic EU costs us nearly £2 million every hour, 24-hours a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks of the year.

So the old internationalist politicians - Labour, Tory and Lib-Dem alike - are lying when they tell us that there's "no money" to reinvest in British industry or to deal with hospital waiting lists. The money is there, it's still being made by the sweat of British workers, the genius of British inventors, and the dedication of British businessmen. But it's being given away by anti-British politicians.

That's the truth. But there is something you can do about it - get involved in the British National Party and help to build a true national alternative to the internationalist madness!

Nationalism or globalism? Jobs for British workers or profits for the multinationals? The choice is yours!

Thanks to Globalism these British workers are without a job social consequences for this Government will be dire."

The mention of Thatcherism is a timely reminder that the Tories offer no alternative to New Labour's criminal neglect of our manufacturing base.

Like Labour, the Conservatives are committed to 'free trade' and 'globalisation' - pretty sounding phrases which disguise the ugly workers, British industry, and the British economy as a whole.

Faced with mounting public concern, the Government did announce recently that it would spend up to £100 million to save a bit of what is left of our coal-mining industry, but the truth is that this is like putting a sticking plaster on the gaping wound left when a patient has just had a leg

ROVER SELL-OFF

BMW has explained its decision to sell Rover and Longbridge as being mainly the result of the 'strong Pound', and the Government has generally gone along with this story. But BNP members at the Vauxhall plants in several parts of England report that their factories have never been busier, even though the strength of the Pound is hitting their export market too. So how come Rover can't cope, but Vauxhalls are doing alright? The truth is that the 'strong Pound', although not helping British manufacturing industry, is being used as an excuse by BMW to cover up the real reason for ditching Rover. This is that the BMW group as a whole is producing more cars than it can sell, so needs to cut back its capacity.

Britains famous Rover badge

But employment law in Germany means that the company would have to pay far bigger amounts of redundancy money, and give permanent pensions, to workers it laid off over there. Quite simply, getting rid of German workers is expensive, but sacking British workers is cheap!

Similarly, Rover's German bosses have never been keen to develop the more expensive models in the Rover range properly, because they didn't want them to compete with German-made BMWs. That's why they made sure that top-of-the-range Rovers simply haven't been exported to the potentially huge market in the USA. In a way, you can't blame the foreign bosses of sold-off British companies for wanting to put their own workers in plants back home first.

The people who are really responsible for the job losses here are the successive Tory and Labour governments who have allowed so much of our manufacturing base to fall into foreign hands in the first place. Globalisation = Unemployment. It's as simple as that. But the internationalist politicians of the old parties don't want ordinary voters to realise this, which is why they've gone along with BMW, blaming the strength of the Pound, rather than foreign ownership.

Conservative government.

● It was the Tories who signed us up to a series of EU treaties and agreements that make it legally impossible for any government which insists on staying in Europe to turn back asylum seekers.

● It was the Tories, led by Margaret Thatcher, who let in 17,000 Vietnamese boat people within just six weeks of being elected on an 'anti-immigration' ticket back in 1979

● Hague's bold words about putting asylum seekers in prison camps overlook two simple facts. First, this would cost £1,800 per 'refugee' per week. So your asylum tax bill would get even worse. Second, Britain just doesn't have enough prison camp places that would be needed to house the 200,000 asylum seekers and their families who Home Office figures show are now arriving every year.

But, of course, Hague doesn't care that his suggestion is unworkable, because he doesn't really want to stop immigration in the first place - he just wants to con votes out of people who are sick to death of the costs and the dangers of the multi-racial society. You don't have to take our word for it, just remember what Mr. Hague told a big fundraising dinner of Asian businessmen recently. Did he talk to them about prison camps? Oh no! He told them that he looks forward to the day when Britain has an Asian Prime Minister!

Willy and Anne: 'Hardliners'

UN PROMOTES OUR DESTRUCTION

WITH the birth rate of most European countries dwindling to half the death rate, white Europe is caught in a demographic dilemma - we're literally disappearing! And now the United Nations has suggested that the problem of the vanishing Europeans (including Britons) might best be solved by a mass influx of immigrants.

The UN, which is being developed into an international government, would love nothing better than for the white peoples of the its without 'old-fashioned' ideas like culture, freedom or ethnic identity getting in the way of the almighty dollar.

A UN population report released in March projects that Italy would need to let in up to 2.2 million new immigrants every year just to keep its labour pool filled and its pension system manageable. That would be an annual influx about twice the total number of immigrants now in Italy.

Germany would need even more - to the United Nations, Italy would have to raise the retirement age to 77 to maintain the current ratio of four workers for every pensioner. The UN goes on to claim that other European countries face a similar problem a few years further down the line.

All this is complete nonsense, however, as all the European countries mentioned have millions of unemployed who can quite easily make up the shortfall in workers. Furthermore, mechanisation and computerisation could easily replace many millions more people if it weren't for the fact that using immigrant labour allows company bosses and investment 'strategists' to avoid investing in such technology so as to boost short-term profits.

An unholy alliance of greedy big businessmen and the 'ex'-Marxists who still dominate internationalist bodies like the United Nations is literally murdering the nations of the West.

The only thing that can halt the destruction is a Europe-wide upsurge of nationalism. Fortunately, that upsurge is taking place, as has been shown by recent elections in Switzerland, Austria and Italy.

It's happening in Britain too, and it will happen even faster if you make up your mind to join the British National Party and do your bit to help.

UN HEADQUARTERS NEW YORK: The would-be new capital of the world if liberals and their cronies get their way world to disappear from the face of the earth, because, we, at the moment, still have the ability to defeat the internationalists' plan of a world government.

The UN isn't a global policeman and 'peacekeeper'.

It is a front to enforce what former US President George Bush called the 'New World Order', but what everyone with any sense knows means a frontierless world where multinational capitalist companies can make the biggest possible prof-up to 3.4 million every year, the report said. The population crunch stands to bite hardest in Italy, whose birth rates vies with Spain for the lowest in Europe as Italians increasingly trim their family size. The UN study said Italy's population could drop 28 percent by 2050, from 57 million people to 42 million.

The dilemma is in the shrinking, and ageing, labour pool. By 2030, Italy's pension costs will rise from 14 per cent of gross domestic product to 17 or 18 per cent. According

NURSING UNION SURVEY BURIES "IMMIGRANT NURSES" MYTH

"WE NEED the immigrants to run the health service." How often have you heard that one from someone on TV trying to find a good reason for allowing continued immigration?

And have you ever seen a soap or a 'docudrama' about a hospital which isn't packed with non-white nurses? Well, now the truth is out! In order to show its commitment to 'diversity', and to refute absurd allegations that it is "institutionally racist," the UKCC - the governing body of the British nursing profession - sent out an ethnic monitoring form to all its members. More than 140,000 forms have now been returned by registered nurses, midwives and health visitors. This gives what the UKCC calls "a reasonable level of data relating to the ethnic composition of the professions across the United Kingdom." The result deals a crushing blow to the "immigrants run the health service" lie. Around 82 per cent of those who responded identified their ethnic origin as "White British," with a further 5 per cent ticking the "White Irish" box and 2 per cent more describing themselves as "Other White".

A mere 2 per cent were Black Caribbean, with the same figure for Black Africans and Chinese. The UKCC has so far not even bothered to report the number describing themselves as Asian. So there we have it: 89 per cent of a huge sample of nurses, midwives and health visitors describe themselves as "White". This is the backbone of the health service - and its made up of our people.

MOVING FORWARD!

The Greater London Assembly elections were held on Thursday May 4th - together with local elections all over the country in which the BNP stood candidates.

The results, reviewed on pages ten and eleven, were excellent for the party. Now we need to deal with the huge number of enquiries received from the public, and turn them into new members and regular supporters. That costs money!

The cost to the party of fighting the London Assembly election, and contest for mayor, was £25,000 in deposits alone.

Happily, £5,000 was returned to the BNP as a result of winning over 2.5% of the assembly vote. We also raised nearly £10,000 from supporters towards the costs before the elections took place. That leaves a shortfall of nearly £15,000, including the costs of loudspeaker vans and other lesser costs, which has been met from central funds.

All of this leaves the party needing to raise the maximum amount in donations to ensure that, after the poll, we have adequate funds to move forward on the back of massive exposure for the patriotic cause.

That means we need the help of new and regular readers of Freedom. Even if you are reading this in a town or city hundreds of miles from London, where the BNP did not stand for election, you'll understand that a good showing by the British National Party in our capital city and in the local polls has given us a tremendous boost across the whole of the country.

If this is the first time you've read anything from the British National Party, the chances are that you're delighted at last to find a party that is prepared to stand up and say out loud the things you've been thinking for so long.

But just because more and more people like you are in agreement with us isn't going to help us save Britain. Only organised political work will change anything. Our crusade to do just that needs more members, more activists, and more money.

We hope that you're already ready to join the growing number of decent Britons working to build the British National Party, but even if you aren't quite ready to commit yourself to being active, you can choose to do your bit in confidence by sending a donation towards our post-election £3,000 Moving Forward Fund.

Please make cheques/POs payable to 'British National Party' and send to PO Box 25352, London NW5 2FE.

Please note that donations of less than £10 will only be acknowledged if an SAE is provided. The more you donate, the more we can do! Thank you.

ISLAMIC EXTREMISM

A PENDLE, Lancashire, church was firebombed while worshippers held a bible study inside early in April. Minister Dave Bullock saw flames leaping from the doors of the Full Mission Gospel Church in Brierfield as broken glass smashed to the floor.

Churchgoers, including the over-80s, escaped through a side door during the arson attack. The church has been repeatedly attacked during the last 18 months, including an earlier incident when wood shavings were pushed through the letterbox, and set on fire. Typed messages reading "Allah is the one true God, you must get out" have been placed on worshippers' cars, some of which have been vandalised.

The church doors have also been vandalised with the word Allah scrawled in huge letters. The church has been raising funds to help communities in the Indian state of Orissa, which was devastated by a cyclone recently.

Police are investigating the attacks.

Pastor David Bullock examines graffiti painted on the doors of Full Gospel Mission Church in Pendle Muslim fanatics threatened death to anyone who voted in the election for Mayor of London.

The Al-Muhajiroun sect declared a Fatwa against voters since it says democracy is a sin and "only Allah has the right to make laws".

Posters appeared all over London threatening voters and picturing Labour candidate Frank Dobson, and Independent 'Red Ken' Livingstone. Sheikh Omar Bakri-Mohammed said on behalf of the Muslim fanatics: "We believe that no-one has the right to make laws or be voted into power".

THE RACIST ATTACK THAT NEVER WAS

A GANG of homicidal White youths set a mixed-race teenager on fire in a racist attack, police claimed. The 17-year-old youth, Chris Barton, was walking along Wimbleslow Road in Beaconsfield, south of Oxford, when the attackers struck at around 1.15am. Police said the teenager was sprayed with a flammable substance from a dark-coloured saloon car which drove past. The car then stopped and three or four youths got out and racially abused the teenager before setting him alight.

The victim was taken to Oxford's John Radcliffe Hospital with superficial burns and later discharged. A Thames Valley police spokesman said: "This is a totally unprovoked, racially motivated attack. We would appeal to anyone who was in the area either on foot or in a vehicle who knows these men, or who saw a vehicle in the area at that time, to contact us." But, after being in all the major newspapers with a burned face, stating that he had been attacked by "white racist thugs", the police said that the attack, in fact, never happened!

The alleged 'victim' now faces being charged with wasting police time, after being arrested together with two older men in connection with an alleged attempted insurance fraud. When Barton first made his false claim, it was 'front page' news in various national newspapers. But the fact that Barton's accusations turned out to be a hoax received minimal media attention.

That is typical of the way in which the papers and TV have built up a climate of hysteria about 'racism' - used to bar sensible debate about the failure of the multiracial experiment.

DIARY DATES

Saturday 12th - Sunday 13th August

Red, White and Blue Summer Festival

• Saturday is Family Day, ending with a series of social events • Sunday is a political day, with seminars, workshops, monster meeting.

A few weeks ago I spent some time at the docks in Dover. I was visiting the immigration officers who have to deal with people who come to this country to claim political asylum. In order to claim asylum you have to show you are fleeing persecution in your homeland. One officer told me that he had, on one occasion, posed the question: "Who's persecuting you?" The answer he received was "my mother-in-law".

Former Home Secretary Michael Howard, Sunday Telegraph

We're already the laughing stock of Europe because of the Government's attitude towards asylum seekers, and its persistence with political correctness. I was in Moscow recently and saw a city bristling with an efficient and inexpensive Metro system. The food queues we used to hear about no longer exist. And, contrary to popular belief, Russian citizens are free to say what they think while we in Britain cannot because of political correctness, something unheard of in Russia. Letter, Daily Mail Teacher Richard Smith has been suspended from Denbigh School in Luton. He said he didn't want his child to attend the school where he worked because 92% of the children are Asian with language difficulties. If you had a bright 11-year-old would you want him to sit in class with children who can scarcely speak the language? Would you want him to be swamped and isolated by children from a different culture? This isn't racism. It's common sense. Unfortunately, the official attitude to race has become an amalgam of tragedy and farce.

TO THE POINT

Or, We Couldn't Put It Better Ourselves - Items in the establishment press showing opinion moving our way.

The poorest, most deprived, most vulnerable children are suffering. People are terrified of speaking the truth because of the powerful race lobby. I'd like to ask the Prime Minister if he'd be happy for his own two sons to go to Denbigh? It is in Luton which is perfectly commutable from Chequers.

Lynda Lee-Potter, Daily Mail

Britain's role in Africa was not that of crude exploiter but as bringer of many gifts and benefits, whose rulers often loved the country. We left not because we were hated or had failed but because we could no longer afford to stay, and the United States was hostile to our empire and jealous.

Washington's own empire was the 48 states whose original peoples had been slaughtered, or corralled into reservations. As for the USSR, that other great 'anti-imperialist', it was a prison house.

Peter Hitchens, The Express

To the Prime Minister, like the Mad Hatter, words mean anything he wants them to mean. In Blair's book, a xenophobe is someone who wants Britain to remain an independent nation, with its own laws, own parliament and currency. Blair said: "If that's the sort of country people want to live in then f them."

Richard Littlejohn, The Sun

I have been studying the Honours (Prevention of Abuse) Act passed in 1925. So many honours had been sold by Liberal and Tory leaders in exchange for payments that a Royal Commission recommended a new law to stamp out the practice.

The only person ever prosecuted under the act was a social-climbing shyster called Maundy Gregory. Maundy was packed off for two months to Wormwood Scrubs. He was met outside by a fast car. He was set up in a splendid French villa paid for by a consortium of rich, ennobled and anonymous benefactors brought together by the Conservative Party. The question of whether the act covers the payment of many millions of pounds, by a businessman who desperately wanted a peerage, to the Conservative Party whose leader would not rest until his benefactor got what he wanted is obviously a matter for the prosecuting authorities and the courts.

Paul Foot, The Guardian

ARE WHITE FLIGHTERS REFUGEES?

WHITE people who are forced to flee violence, drug wars, gang crime, and the destruction of our communities caused by government-enforced immigration and multi-cultural policies can now arguably be classified as "internally displaced people", who should receive the same rights afforded to those who cross borders to safety. "Internally displaced people", that is people forced to flee to safer areas within their own countries, are now protected by the United Nations. Strangely though, despite the fact that by the UN's own definition there are millions of "internally displaced people" in Britain, Europe and North America, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees isn't interested. 'White flight' is an invisible problem to the liberal establishment.

TELLING THE TRUTH IS 'RACIST'

One of Tony Blair's most valued supporters, black Trade Union leader Bill Morris, has savagely attacked the Government claiming: "By putting through measure after measure to stop people coming to Britain, the Government is giving life to the racists".

How on earth trying to stop bogus asylum seekers from milking our benefits system, at a time when one-third of all British children live in poverty, is "giving life to racists" beggars belief.

"The mood music is playing a hostile tune for black Britain" he said.

What a farce!

How is stopping Albanian drug gangs, and Algerian terrorists, from taking millions upon millions of pounds from our country threatening to black people? If they're working and paying taxes, black people just as much as whites have to fork out for these spongers.

BALKANS GETS £100M OF OUR MONEY

AFTER forking out millions of pounds to enforce the New World Order on Serbia, by means of bombs and ethnic cleansing - we now have to fork out more millions for transnational corporations to rebuild the damage that NATO did in the first place!

A £100 million package towards the rebuilding of the battle-scarred Balkans was unveiled by Labour's Europe Minister Keith Vaz at a conference in Brussels recently.

He announced that the UK was to take part in a team effort to restore South East Europe and open up trade. The UK cash, over three years, is in addition to Britain's 18 per cent share of a joint EU donation of about £270 million.

It looks likely, however, that the British taxpayer will have to dig even deeper than this, because the funding required has been estimated to be at least £1 billion over the next twelve months alone!

Keith Vaz told the conference: "The Europeanisation of the Balkans is close to Mr Blair's heart".

Helping our own pensioners, homeless and unemployed is closer to the heart of the BNP! Under New Labour they count for little.

The European Commission has just announced an agreement whereby English will be the official language of the EU rather than German, which was the other possibility.

As part of the negotiations, Her Majesty's Government conceded that English spelling had some room for improvement and has accepted a 5-year phase in plan that would be known as "EuroEnglish":

In the first year, "s" will replace the soft "c". Certainly, this will make many civil servants jump with joy.

The hard "c" will be dropped in favor of the "k".

This should klear up konfusion and keyboards can have 1 less letter. There will be growing publik enthusiasm in the sekond year, when the troublesome "ph" will be replaced with the "f". This will make words like "fotograf" 20% shorter.

ONE IN FOUR pre-owned cars sold in Britain has an insurance history, yet nearly all of them are sold at top prices. So whenever you buy a second-hand car, you risk paying over the top for a vehicle which may well have been an insurance write-off.

While there's nothing wrong with most of them, this means that you might be ripped off by paying more than you should do. But now, Affordable Cars has taken that risk out of buying a pre-owned car. There's no need to wonder about whether one of our cars has an insurance history - because they all have!

That's because we specialise in buying stolen/recovered or lightly vandalised cars from reputable insurance company salvage sales.

Then we fit new locks, sort out the glass and paint damage, give the vehicles a thorough overhaul, have them inspected and MOT'd at an independent garage - then sell them in garage sale condition at less than private sale prices. That's got to be a better deal than buying from someone else and standing a one-in-four chance of buying a salvaged/repair car without knowing it, and paying top whack as a result. And, best of all, because Affordable Cars is run by a co-operative of British National Party members and supporters, the BNP gets a share of the profit from every single sale.

We also provided the decorated loud-speaker vehicles that made such an impact in the party's London election campaign.

So if you want to get real value for money the next time you buy a car, and to help raise money for the BNP at the same time,

There is just one copy of Rally '89 available. Get it now before someone else does! Cost for Rally videos '89 and '94 is just £13.05 incl. p&p

Rally January '97. Video of the postponed 1996 BNP Annual Rally, held in London on January 25th 1997. Speeches by Dr. Donald Stevens, Nick Griffin, Richard Edmonds, John Tyndall and overseas guest Jose Ramos. Rally '95. Video of the 11th Annual Rally, staged in London on November 11th 1995. Hear and see speeches by John Morse, Richard Edmonds, Thomas Andersson, Michael Newland, Dr. William Pierce and John Tyndall. Videos of Rallies '95-'97 are £15.00 each plus 83p p&p.

Rally November 1997 was the party's second major rally of that year, and was notable for the excellent and dynamic regional reports from across the country demonstrating the progress of the party. The wake of the 1997 General Election saw BNP Regional Rallies as main speakers: John Tyndall, Richard Edmonds and Nick Griffin with Dave Bruce in the chair. Price £15 plus 83p p&p.

VOTE BNP — ELECTION '98

This outstanding video was put out in the party's best seats for that May's council elections. It was a media and opposition took for the party's powerful message. It worked well as a canvassing tool and persuaded otherwise uncommitted voters to vote BNP. Get it for just £6.50 post free.

BNP 2000!

Join now for 2000! Membership of the party costs just £20 per year with a half-rate discount available for students, OAPs and the unemployed.

Membership last year was up 41% on the year before which in turn was up 36% on the year before that. The BNP is growing fast and is on a roll as it gets an increasingly professional act together.

More and more people are becoming members and more new groups are being formed to eventually take the BNP into every town and village. The people of Britain want change. Join them. Join the BNP!

EU TO BAN PARTIES IT DEEMS "EXTREMIST"

THE FASCIST European Union has shown its true colours with a threat to arbitrarily ban any party whose views it dislikes from the European Parliament.

The excuse to be used, if the constitutional affairs committee's plan goes ahead, will be any suspicion that a party has "attitudes" which the EU regards as "extremist".

"Extremist", in the language now used by the media and political class both in Britain and throughout Europe, means anyone who disagrees with anything they say.

Any party which supports the interests of its own people, or displays the slightest indication of patriotism will certainly be classified as holding the wrong opinions.

The totalitarian scheme, intended to start in 2009, must be debated and approved by the European Parliament before it can be introduced, but has already been backed by the unelected gang which really runs the EU - the European Commission.

The EU also intends to introduce funding for parties which do not fall foul of the ban on the grounds that the latter "contribute to European awareness".

Thus the European Parliament will exclude anyone who does not want a totalitarian superstate, while lavishly rewarding Identikit yes-men who will back whatever the Commission wants to do, and who know that they will be banned if they display the slightest sign of dissent.

The Tories, who, under a cloak of opposition to the EU, have worked for decades to advance the project, are already concerned that they will be banned.

The Conservatives are thus likely to find that they have been employed as 'useful idiots' in building a power structure which eventually leads to their own marginalisation. Their position resembles that of the millions who, in communist states, played a part in purging anyone seen as a threat to the regimes, only to be purged themselves when their usefulness was expended.

The EU has now abandoned any pretence to be democratic in nature. Europe is to become a single state run on exactly the same lines as Stalin's Russia.

THE BNP AND RACE

The BNP is best known for its policy on race and immigration. The BNP opposes immigration into the UK from whatever its source. For forty years this immigration has primarily been coloured. But it is not an issue of colour since the party is equally opposed to immigration from Albania and Eastern Europe. The BNP is not a 'race supremacist' party. The BNP does not claim that any one race is superior to any other, simply that they are different.

The party merely wishes to preserve those differences which make up the rich tapestry of human kind.

Neither has the BNP any connection with 'race hate'. Indeed it is the multi-racialists who are the haters since it is BNP Chairman Nick Griffin meets with Black nationalists. Its not a matter of 'hate'. All we want is just mutual separation bringing the END of racism and hatred.

they who are determined to destroy all cultures and all races to achieve a multi-racial mish-mash. To protect and preserve the racial and cultural integrity of the British people — and of others too, the party believes in separation. Only in a Black society will Black kids find true Black role models.

Only in a Muslim society will Muslims find their religion free from Western influence.

All peoples need a homeland. The British too need a homeland. Nor are the BNP 'racist'. Indeed, the BNP are resisting the racist colonisation of Britain in which the native people of Britain are having their culture suppressed, their land colonised and are being discriminated against on racial grounds.

To sum up, the BNP is fighting for the very right to exist of not just the British, but of all peoples.

ITS NOT A MATTER OF HATE!

●The multiracists who are trying to destroy the identity of Britain often say that anyone who opposes mass immigration and forced multiculturalism is a 'bigot' or a 'hater'. This is nonsense!

The truth is that the real bigots are the people who are so hostile to the British that they've turned us into second class citizens in our own country. And the real race haters are the people who want to mix up and destroy all the separate races and cultures so that international big business can make maximum profits in a single, globalised world market.

Many non-whites, particularly Black separatists and Muslims, completely agree with the British National Party in rejecting enforced multiculturalism. More and more of the immigrants who came here during the 1950s and 1960s are realising that they were tricked into coming here as cheap labour for Tory businessmen and cheap votes for Labour councillors, and that Britain really doesn't suit them - which is why thousands of West Indians in particular are now returning home. Labour Home Office spokesman Mike O'Brien recently warned on Radio Five that, if the multiracial experiment failed, "our children, black and white alike, will pay a heavy price."

Being politically active in local communities in many of the most heavily multiracial areas of Britain, the BNP knows that the multiracial experiment has already failed. This is why we want to bring it to an end, and to provide the financial assistance needed to enable the very large numbers of non-whites who want to return to their lands of ethnic origin to do so. Our Homeward Bound offer has led to cooperation between BNP activists and black people who want to leave Britain, and we are always very happy to work with them.

Sir - The situation regarding immigration is apparently totally out of control. The people with their feet on the ground are intimidated, humiliated and rather angry.

I have never known, not since the days of Enoch Powell, such outrage amongst the working class. They are having to pay very large increases in taxation for this influx of humanity, who are sucking up every financial advantage, totally in disdain of the indigenous population and their rights.

Jack Straw, as a young man, saw and seized an opportunity, rising to power by standing on the backs of black people, gay people and minority groups, standing firm on their "rights" and disregarding entirely the wishes and thoughts of his own race, as if they were of no consequence.

Peter Ridgley

Sir - I had this story relayed to me by a friend who works as a clerk in a magistrates court, and have no reason to doubt its authenticity.

In a certain town in the North West of England, a police motorcyclist was surveying the busy traffic on a long bridge over a ship canal. He noticed a Mercedes approaching driven by a man of Asian origin, who was talking on a mobile telephone and sifting through papers on his lap.

The policeman signalled the driver to pull over, intending to tick him off for driving without due care, and then send him on his way. The driver was less than pleased, and hurled verbal abuse at the officer, who duly gave him a fixed penalty notice.

Shortly after, it transpired that the motorist complained bitterly that he was the victim of police harassment, and he was only pulled over because of his dark skin. There followed a court case. The victim of this 'racial harassment' was late for the court hearing, so the policeman put his crash helmet back on and went outside, missing the 'victim' by seconds. The case started, and the policeman was called back to the courtroom, still wearing his motorcycle clothing and crash helmet.

It was a quick case, the solicitor acting on behalf of the Asian gentleman getting his bit in first about racial harassment from the police, etc, etc....

Imagine their surprise when the policeman removed his crash helmet to reveal an Asian face, only to be told that he is one of several Asian policemen in that district.

The policeman also made a little speech of his own in court to the effect that had he been white-skinned, he would more than likely have lost his career. Case dismissed!

Chris Ryan

Sir - The sixtieth anniversary of Defence Regulation 18B, under which 1,000 British patriots were incarcerated in concentration camps, without charge or trial, falls on May 22.

These men and women were seized and denied all rights including even having their families or themselves told why they were being held. In many cases their homes were burgled, their businesses looted, and their families left with no provision for their welfare. Servicemen were seized on their way back from Dunkirk and bombing raids over Germany. Some also suffered the horrors of the Ham Common Interrogation Centre and were in broken health when released. Passports were withheld for years after the war. The few remaining survivors of what was the greatest injustice in Britain in the 20th century have never had any help from so-called human rights organisations, and should not be forgotten.

LJ Irving, Plymouth

Sir - I am an American living in the state of Texas, and I think the BNP is an outstanding organization. If only a similar party existed in America! Keep building your infrastructure — I'm sure you'll succeed. It's just a matter of time before a great and charismatic leader like those in Europe emerges here in the United States to stand up for the rights of the white population.

Brian Copp
Dallas, Texas

Sir - Good luck with the forthcoming elections in London. I'm generally impressed with your web sites, and the fact that you update them so regularly.

I've read the material on your sites, and realise that calling our current political situation "democratic" is an insult to the ancient peoples who invented the concept. I may not agree with all the ideas in your manifesto, but believe that you have a right to be heard. Good job!!!

Peter Mason, New Zealand

Sir - Please keep up this great work which you are undertaking and help us, the people, fight for our rights against this anti-white propaganda which I have faced for 19 years of my life.

Duncan Dibble, 19
Oswestry, Shropshire (formerly Wembley, Brent)

Sir - I was sorry to hear that the BBC linked to the Web sites of every candidate but the BNP's in the GLA elections, but not really surprised being one of their employees. I can't think what they hoped to achieve since anyone can find the BNP's site within thirty seconds.

On the plus side the arrival of Greg Dyke means that many of these politically correct types will soon be collecting their P45s. Name and address supplied

Sir - Large companies like British Airways do not support the British way of life.

This same company would not allow its staff to support the troops during the Gulf War Campaign. We were told that we had to take down the Union Jack as it was upsetting ethnic groups.

We had to make it known to the company that industrial action would be taken if we were forced to do so.

It did not come to that, because we all made a stand, but it does make you think, especially when British Airways took away the Union Jack and painted tails in other colours. They turned their backs on Great Britain and the troops who fought for them. Isn't it so sad that companies are made to act like an ass and puppets to appease the Government, (as we all are made to do so or condemned racist).

We have no option but to fight and stand as one to make the government aware and accountable for not representing our interests as they were elected to do.

GED, BNP Internet letters

"Whites are our enemy" Mugabe

Whites in deep peril in from African tyrant

A WHITE farmer, David Stevens, 50-years-old and father of four, was dragged from his home then beaten, tortured and shot as government-sponsored thugs in Zimbabwe intensify their campaign to rid the country of its white population.

He was the first to die as black gangs stepped up the land-grabbing terror campaign that has been allowed to develop into full scale ethnic cleansing of the country's whites.

Several neighbours who tried to help Mr Stevens were fired at and had to seek protection in a police station. Soon afterwards, a black ethnic cleansing gang walked into the station and abducted them, while black policemen looked on and did nothing.

The same anti-white hate campaign has also seen a number of instances of black-on-white rape as a weapon of ethnic cleansing. With the high level of HIV/AIDS infection in the local population, this is a truly terrifying development, and it has led to many thousands of Zimbabwe's remaining 80,000 whites preparing to flee.

Whitehall has ordered that Zimbabwe whites fleeing the spiralling number of attacks should not receive the same treatment as other refugees fleeing from oppression.

So, if an Albanian claims that he has had to flee his country because he is being oppressed, he is given a free home, benefits etc. But a white person, fleeing for exactly the same reasons, is given nothing!

The Government says that they must apply for a "certificate of entitlement". That doesn't apply to refugees from Somalia and the rest of the Third World. They are also being told that they must be "able to support themselves" if they are to be allowed into Britain.

Liberals, who believed that Zimbabwe, formerly called Rhodesia, would become a multi-racial paradise after the overthrow of "white racist minority rule," have witnessed the country become another African slum under a brutal black dictator.

New Labour says that any action taken against Mugabe would be a "knee-jerk reaction."

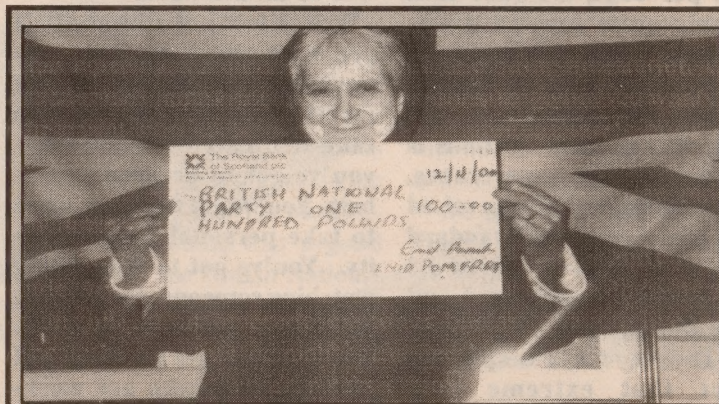

We say to the white people of Zimbabwe, who are mainly of British descent: Come Home!

● While Robert Mugabe's government terrorises white people, and issues all manner of threats against Britain, the Zimbabwe cricket team will shortly arrive for a three-month tour! Quite different standards were, of course, applied to South African teams during apartheid.

● Turkish football hooligans responsible for the deaths of two Britons may receive only three-and-a-half year prison sentences. When the British football fans were murdered in Istanbul, the Turkish media described the murders as "hooliganism", but when reprisal attacks took place against Turks in Leeds they were described as "race crimes".

Victims of anti-white racism in Africa

● 84-year-old BNP member Enid Pomfret puts to shame many younger party members. Enid is not only a keen Burnley & Pendle activist, who has been out leafleting during the local elections, she has also given a very generous £100 donation towards our campaign 'war chest'. A shining example to all of us!

In Brief.....

HOMOSEXUALS ALLOWED TO 'ADOPT' CHILDREN

The Government is hell bent on pandering to the powerful 'gay' lobby - well-represented in Whitehall's corridors of power. Three members of Tony Blair's cabinet are openly homosexual.

The latest move, after lowering of the age of consent to 16 last month, has been to allow homosexuals to adopt children. Family and Catholic groups have slammed the proposals which they fear put children at great risk.

WHICH IS THE BETTER CAUSE?

Gay rights organisation Stonewall has been awarded £800,000 from the National Lottery to promote homosexuality through workshops, conferences and publications. Obviously more deserving than St. Dunstons, the charity for blinded British ex-servicemen and women which had its application for £1 million to repair facilities turned down by the rabidly left-wing National Lottery Charities Board.

SEARCHLIGHT BANNED

Anti-white hate magazine Searchlight, published by convicted burglar Gerry Gable, has been banned by North London Yeshurun schul synagogue. The Edgware synagogue said that Searchlight was unsuitable for reading on the premises, and should not be seen by children.

REFUGEE TO SUE ARMY

Kosovan refugee Muhamet Bici, whose wounded face was rebuilt for free by British medics, is repaying the kindness by suing the British army.

Bici was shot while celebrating Nato's eviction of Serbs from Kosovo, and claims that the bullet came from a British gun.

LOCAL COUNCIL ELECTIONS

BNP GAINS COUNCIL SEAT

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY has acquired its first councillor since the 1993 election of Derek Beackon in London.

Stalwart Herefordshire activist and ex-serviceman Bernard Haycock has become a councillor after not a single other party contested his seat in Bromyard and Winslow. The local Hereford Times (pictured right) said that Bernard would make a good councillor and should be given his chance - quite something from a media like ours in Britain!

Well done Bernard!

BNP councillor John Bernard Haycock

No election, but extreme right take council seat

HEREFORDSHIRE has gained Britain's only extreme right councillor - without a single vote being cast.

John Bernard Haycock (pictured inset) had planned to represent the controversial British National Party - well known for their nationalistic anti-immigration and anti-European views - at the parish elections on May 4.

But as only 16 candidates put their names down to contest the 18 seats in the Bromyard and Winslow ward, the ex-soldier is certain to win a place.

Describing himself as a 'working class, right-wing conservative', Mr Haycock told The Hereford Times that he was looking forward to the challenge of local politics.

"Parish councils do not have a lot of influence but I'm going to do my best for the people of Bromyard," he said.

British National Party gains only UK place - in Bromyard

RICHARD WILSON reporting

The 60-year-old, who has lived in Bromyard for 30 years, went on: "The BNP is the only party to support the British people. The main parties are just trying to destroy the country."

"Europe was a big factor in my joining the party, as was immigration - there seems to be an open door policy to people from the whole world and it's gone beyond a joke."

"They are building a new estate in Bromyard and there's a rumour that the houses will be used as an overspill for immigrants - that's too much."

His fellow councillors have given Mr Haycock a guarded welcome to the Herefordshire political scene.

Independent Bernard Hunt said: "Providing Mr Haycock throws himself wholeheartedly into local politics, I am sure there will be no dissent with his council membership."

"But he should know that there's no room for extreme politics in Bromyard."

Mayor Bill Gibbard is disappointed that Bromyard residents will not get a chance to make their own minds up about Mr Haycock's immoderate views.

"I just wish there had been an election," he commented.

"I am not on the council as a political animal and I am disappointed that other people have stood on a political platform. But if national politics are kept out of it then he will be welcomed."

Mr Haycock stood for the BNP locally in 1997 gaining a three-figure vote - and according to Mr Gibbard that low turnout 'probably reflects the level of support for his views in Bromyard'.

BNP national chairman, Nick Griffin, who met up with Mr Haycock this week, said: "John's success makes it much easier to point out to our people in other parts of the country that, if you look for these seats, you can get elected."

LOCAL ELECTION RESULTS

THE BNP's local election vote rose considerably at the polls this year, with some particular successes.

Hertfordshire activists showed that there is growing concern over the prospect of multiculti London spreading northwards by taking 7 per cent and 8.6 per cent in Cheshunt.

Neil Phillips nearly doubled his vote from 4 per cent to 7 per cent in a difficult mainly middle-class seat in Rugely.

Over in Stoke, Steve Batkin's vote nearly doubled from 5 per cent to 9.3 per cent. Geoff Astbury doubled his vote in Kings Norton ward in South Birmingham.

Simon Darby doubled his vote from 8 per cent to a very respectable 16 per cent in Dudley, easily beating the Lib Dems and getting nearly as much as the highest BNP vote outside London last year. Steve Edwards increased his vote in nearby Tipton Green, once again gaining the highest BNP vote in the country with a smashing 23.7 per cent of the poll, despite what is believed to be large scale electoral fraud by Asian Labour supporters.

Formal complaints have been made by both the Tories and the BNP, which have received massive local press coverage.

Further north, nationalist activists in Burnley showed the potential for rapid BNP growth in Lancashire by taking a phenomenal 21.5 per cent in Fullede. Oldham also produced a 9.7 per cent vote in an area where the party has only been active for a few months!

The sole result in Yorkshire this year saw a vote of just 3.8 per cent, a figure that seems quite low until one considers that this beats the nationalist vote in Tipton Green only eight years ago. Winning in local elections is all a matter of perseverance.

Sunderland BNP, who raised the party's electoral standard in the North East, scored 3.3 per cent in Hendon ward, and Joe Dobbie won 7.8 per cent in Thorney Close despite the fact that extreme left-wingers put out no fewer than four different smear leaflets, and canvassed every home.

While we've still got a long way to go, the continued rise in electoral support for the BNP shows that the party's continued drive to modernise its organisation and improve its image is working.

The results prove that very significant numbers of ordinary people are happy to back the British National Party. If there's a "missing ingredient" it's the individuals who read BNP publications like Freedom, nod their heads in agreement - and then do nothing. Some of them seem to think that everything will turn out alright because someone else will do all the work.

Well, life's not like that! If you want something done - especially something really worthwhile that is going to take dedicated hard work - you've got to be prepared to help. You've got to be prepared to take personal responsibility. You've got to stop sitting watching someone else do what you know needs to be done. You've got to get involved and join the team who are working to put things right.

In other parts of Europe, this means joining people like France's Front National or Austria's Freedom Party - nationalist organisations that

LONDON ELECTIONS

80,000 VOTE BNP IN LONDON

VOTES for the British National Party in London increased dramatically in the May 4th GLA elections.

BNP mayoral candidate Michael Newland won 33,569 first preference votes in addition to 45,337 second preference votes. That means no fewer than 78,906 Londoners voted for a British National Party mayor! In East London nearly 9% of voters put a cross against our candidate, and London-wide about 5%. The Green Party candidate, Darren Johnson, won few more first preference votes than Mike Newland, although - in contrast to the BNP - he received continuous and favourable media exposure.

The party's slate of candidates for the Greater London Assembly did even better, gaining the support of 47,670 Londoners in a low turnout. This was 2.73 per cent of the vote, which meant that the British National Party's aim of saving our deposit was met - winning back the £5,000 deposit.

Even more significant is how this compares with last year's European election, where Londoners also had the chance to vote BNP. Last June, 17,960 of them did so, giving the party 1.57 per cent of the poll. Although the overall vote is still huge, the 83 per cent improvement in less than a year is quite dramatic and shows that we're moving in the right direction.

Another welcome feature of the London result was the ease with which the British National Party defeated the anti-EU pressure group the UK Independence Party, whose vote slumped by more than two-thirds to 1.9 per cent despite a party political broadcast on television.

The BNP has opposed Britain's membership of the European Union throughout its 19 year history, whereas UKIP has only existed for a few years but has been built up as a 'safe' alternative to the BNP by the media. Our comprehensive defeat of this rival for the nationalist vote is particularly gratifying.

We're moving forward!

GRIFFIN SPEAKS TO BNP'S AMERICAN FRIENDS

NICK GRIFFIN, the Chairman of the British National Party, has just returned from a five day visit to Washington DC, capital of the United States. This included the first ever speech by a leader of the BNP to the party's American Friends.

The main meeting was a great success, with 70 people attending despite the fact that it took place on an Easter weekend, which many Americans traditionally spend with their families. The enthusiastic audience heard a number of informative and inspiring speeches.

First came top US nationalist civil liberties lawyer, Kirk Lyons, head of the Southern Legal Resource Center, who spoke about the growing success of moves to build a coalition to defend the traditional use of the Confederate 'Stars and Bars' flag in the official flag of the state of South Carolina.

A white 'buy-in', called to counter a shopping boycott declared by the anti-white racists of the Communist-founded NAACP, had attracted around 8,000 people, with all sorts of different groups burying their differences and working together to protect their heritage.

Roy Armstrong, an American with close connections to the National Democratic Party of Germany, followed Mr. Lyons. Mr. Armstrong gave an insight into the extent of the liberal-fascist repression of nationalistic ideas and activists in modern Germany, warning his audience of the dangers to freedom posed by politically correct bigotry.

Nick Griffin provided the keynote speech, and had the audience by turns shocked, thoughtful, delighted, outraged and amused in the course of a talk that lasted more than an hour. The enthusiastic reaction of all present was expressed in the collection, which raised nearly $900, despite the fact that everyone present had also paid to attend the meeting.

Mr. Griffin gave a brief overview of his own 26-year involvement in British nationalism, and of the history to date of the BNP.

He followed this with a cool assessment of the prospects for the cause in the future, elsewhere in the world as well as in Britain and the USA. The audience were particularly pleased to hear that he regards the struggle for white rights and white survival as a global one, and that a future British National Party government would do its utmost to promote similar movements in other countries.

"The internationalists are pushing their globalist, multiracist agenda on a worldwide basis, so a victory for nationalism in just one country - although inevitable - will not be enough. We have to win not just in two or three European countries like Austria and Italy, but also in Britain and the USA. But once the first real breakthrough is made, the rest will be much easier."

He concluded with a reiteration of the principal aim of the British National Party - to secure for future generations of our children a future in their own homelands. "That is both our right and our duty. And I tell you this: We will do our duty, and we will have our right."

Following the collection and a question and answer session, the meeting closed with a short address by one of America's best known and most controversial politicians - former Louisiana legislature member, Mr. David Duke.

Mr. Duke was last year defeated in a bid to become Louisiana senator, even though he took a massive 65 per cent of the white vote. That does not mean, however, that his career is in any way waning, as interest and support for him continues to grow. Only last month, for example, nationwide cable TV coverage of his new white civil rights organisation, NO FEAR (National Organisation for Euro-American Rights) led to his website getting more than a million hits in just one weekend!

Mr. Duke gave a heart-rending account of a local black-on-white hate crime, involving the unprovoked murder of an eight-year-old boy just a few days before the meeting.

He and Mr. Griffin had earlier the same day visited the scene of the crime, talking with local people and policemen, and seeking to draw attention to the characteristic media blackout of such an event. Mr. Duke's emotive speech drew warm applause from the audience, all of whom greatly appreciated the fact that he was prepared to drive a round trip of some three thousand miles to meet Nick Griffin and address the American Friends of the BNP.

In addition to this major public meeting, Mr. Griffin held a series of informal discussions with a number of key members and supporters, including syndicated columnist Dr. Sam Francis, whose book Revolution From The Middle is one of the most important sold by the BNP's book service, Freedom Books. The BNP Chairman's short trip to the United States was a great success.

There is little doubt that the American Friends operation will continue to grow in importance and confidence, particularly as it is already showing the ability to bring together Americans from various different groups in a way which can only help to bring some much needed unity to a fragmented and therefore nationally ineffective movement within the USA.

The BNP is now increasingly known internationally

Media liars blackout BNP campaign

BRITAIN'S newspapers, radio and TV stations yet again covered themselves in shame during the London mayoral election. The anti-BNP bias which the media show during every election reached perhaps its worst level so far after it was announced that the British National Party would be contesting both the mayoral and party slate polls in the capital.

The BNP's decision to stand gave the electorate a chance to vote for candidates who opposed the flooding of London with bogus asylum seekers, who called for the police to step up the 'stop and search' operations which are the only way to keep street crime under control, and who opposed the intention of all the other parties to bow to the noisy 'gay' lobby's demands for the legalisation of homosexual acts in public. By standing up to be counted on these issues, the party gave Londoners the real choice that is the essence of democracy.

This was clearly recognised by the Internet community, which is made up overwhelmingly of intelligent and independent-minded individuals, who are able to see what the various political parties really say about the issues that matter.

In the Evening Standard online poll, BNP mayoral candidate Mike Newland steadily scored around 20 per cent of the vote throughout the campaign (picture right), coming second not far behind poll leader Red Ken Livingstone.

Of course, there is at present a huge gap between public opinion as a whole, and the views of the self-selected, better educated group which dominates cyberspace. But, given that the organisers of these polls stated that steps had been taken to keep them fair and to prevent multiple voting, these findings show very clearly just how much progress has been made in making nationalism dominant on the Internet.

This is a very important marker for the future, because many of the individuals involved will go on to become the next generation of businessmen and journalists.

A set of political ideas which capture the support of such a large proportion of intelligent often younger people have a very bright future ahead of them.

And yet not one present-day journalist or newspaper was prepared to give a single mention to the extraordinary showing of the BNP on their own online poll. And their censorship didn't stop there - just take a look at the other black marks earned by the media's liberal-fascists as they conspired to keep the democratic choice offered by the BNP away from London's voters.

The BBC refused to put a link between its London Election website and the highly professional one set up in support of the BNP campaign. This despite the fact that the Blatant Bias Corporation put on such links for all the other candidates, and has had links to sites supporting Sinn Fein and fundamentalist terrorists.

BBC radio commentators, reading out the list of all the candidates standing for mayor, repeatedly refused to use the full name 'British National Party', using only the initials 'BNP', while reading out the full names of the other parties.

Despite poll evidence that the British National Party was likely to beat the badly splintered UK Independence Party, the BBC gave UKIP a party political broadcast, but had no intention of giving one to the BNP.

Despite the fact that the five million BNP election addresses delivered to Londoners gave voters a real choice on the key issues of asylum seekers, anti-white racism, effective policing and the retention of the Section 28 rule against homosexual propaganda, the 'right-wing' Telegraph, Mail and Sun all contrived to give their readers the impression that there was no party standing that represented the majority mainstream view on these matters. That is typical of the way in which the liberal-fascists in the media have worked for years to deny the British people a real choice and to suppress the nationalist alternative.

The liberal media monopoly makes a mockery of democracy, and is the biggest single factor in the lack of apparent popular resistance to the disastrous multiracial and globalisation 'experiments' that have been forced on Britain by the old party politicians.

This is why it's so important for the British National Party to build a strong alternative media voice of its own. This is why we've launched The Voice of Freedom as a mass circulation tabloid newspaper, and why we're putting so much effort into developing a strong presence on the censorship-free Web.

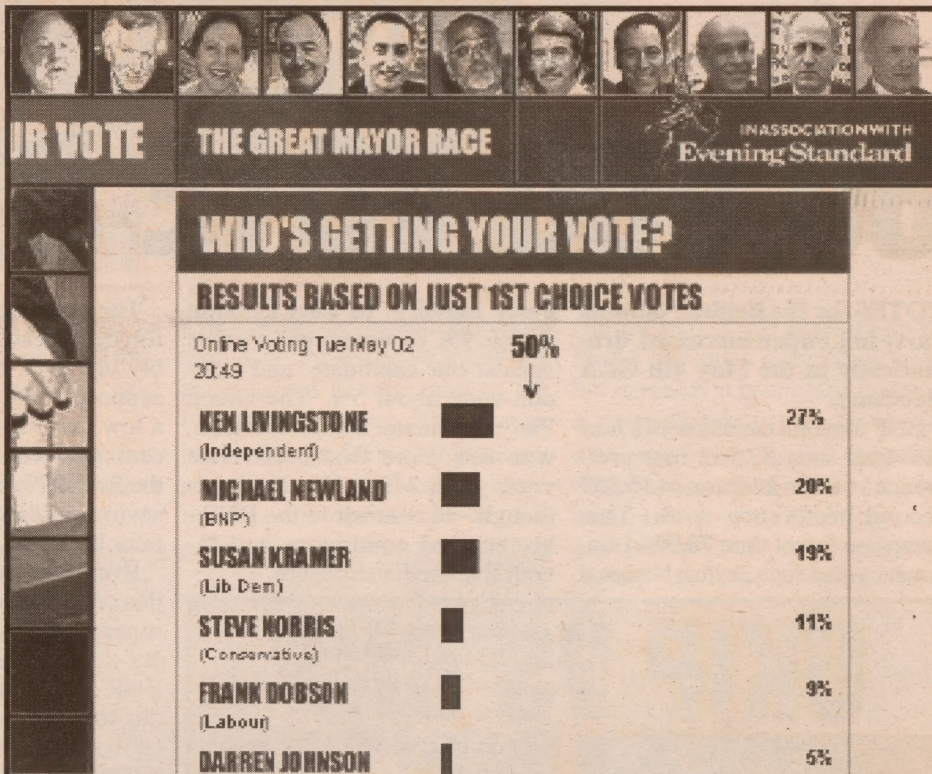

We're breaking through the liberal-fascist media blackout, and we'll do so even faster with the help of your subscription, your donation, or your active support. You can sit and moan, or you can get involved and help us!

What we stand for

- A massive expansion of Freedom and Democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people; the adoption of popular referenda & hi-tech direct democracy.
- The establishment of a government that puts British interests first.
- An end to immigration and the scandal of bogus asylum-seekers flooding Britain. The use of the billions now wasted in foreign aid to fund generous 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their lands of origin.
- British withdrawal from the European Union: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties, and no monetary union.
- The use of the £1 million per hour we at present pay the EU to fund the restoration of an effective National Health Service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources including the mass media.
- Protection of British jobs and industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- The introduction of tax incentives and other policies designed to ensure that the City finances British industry rather than foreign competitors.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside; a ban on greenfield-site house building except in cases of genuine local need; an end to field trials of genetically modified crops.
- A crack-down on crime and tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to the 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.
- An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality; no British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve vital British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and reversal of the defence cuts which have weakened our Armed Forces and cost thousands of jobs.
- The crushing of the IRA and other terrorist groups, the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and the establishment of a devolved, non-sectarian parliament in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.
